The exterior controls are plentiful and hold it quite lovely for one-handed shooting: Á slightly larger, Á more often and Á heavier than the ZS50/60, but Á a good thing for a camera with such a long zoom. It has a phenomenal lens that reaches 600mm at a relatively bright F4 aperture, and makes 4K video, slow motion and shots at a rapid 24fps. and for in-house cases - photographers who only want the highest possible power zoom - lÁY - lÁ ~ lÁY' - lÁ lrlÁY - lÁ rIÁ deva - lÁ rIÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ, lÁ - lÁ - lÁ - lÁ - lÁ - lÁ - lÁ they are a pair of Nikon models that use the smaller 1/2.3 inch sensor format', but reach 2,000 mm and 3,000 mm. You won't see a significant leap in quality than a pocket model, but you will be able to enjoy zoom ratios greater than 50x. For me, those are not valid reviews, so the extra half point helps mitigate them (since Amazon has not removed reviews and I'm probably not doing my part to keep things right). Its quick focus, so even action shots are at hand. The Z570 Á is all you need in a small spot and there is nothing you don't do. Going forward ... Review: There are simply no decent pocket Super Zoom cameras on the market that shoot Raw. Unfortunately, they are difficult to find in detail at this time, so click one if you find it in áawarehouse. Once set, Á a joy shoot. It's huge, heavy and priced on the top side, so it's definitely not a camera for everyone. Both P950 and P1000 are difficult to find in retail at the time of printing due to ongoing issues with chip supplies, so you may have to look for it on the secondary market or wait for Nikon to produce another hatch. Our model Canon SX70 HS, features a 65x lens covering an ultra wide (21 mm) telephoto angle at an extremely narrow telephoto angle. The idea was that a camera like this would close that gap, and perhaps encourage photographers themselves to switch to a reflexion in the 1920s, the term makes less but it's stuck. The Sony RX10 IV Á our best choice. The lenses do not have a large zoom factor, but the larger area' in the sensor allows you to crop when necessary. And in all probability will more' reviews and fans accordingly.Overall the ZS70 Á the best of the most recent ZS series' (or TZ series if outside the United States) cameras. Excellent choice in the external materials, the mixture of flat neck paint and satin metal. For me this camera will the compact sleeper l'Á out right now. Canon PowerShot SX70 HS (Photo: Zlata Ivleva) You can' go more' long when it comes to zoomÁNikon P950's 83x zoom lens covers a range of 24-2,000mmÁBut quality of the images to the telephoto extreme not Á as good as Á at wider angles', and the autofocus definitely struggles with small and fast subjects.Nikon also has the P1000, with a single type of 24-3,000mm (125x) lens, raw image and 4K video recording. Panasonic Lumix DC-FZ1000 II (Photo: Zlata Ivleva) More seriousAAor families who won't mind spending a little more' for better quality imageÁthey want to think of a 1-inch sensor model. Our best choice for wildlife spotters and family holidaymakers Á the Canon SX70 HS. The P950 and P1000 are both niche options, but you can find them in that niche. The models with smaller image sensors' boast very long zoom ranges, while cameras with larger sensors' can't keep up with 30x pocket zoom cameras like the Panasonic ZS50 in terms of absolute zoom range, but provide images that really close the quality gap Compact and SLR.Small sensor, large zoomSome bridge cameras have the same size sensor you will find in a point-and-shoot pocket or a premium smartphone. Choose the bridge from Pontela Pontela Pontemera by bridge more suitable depends on the budget, the needs of the quality of the images and the desired zoom range. It has an ultra-ampoule goal, ideal for landscapes and snapshots in front of famous reference points, and enough zoom power to take a recovery of a singing bird dinner at your feeder. In addition, it stands out from many pocket models and smartphones by offering Raw Capture, a very solid optical stabilization system and an electronic viewfinder. It offers a more stable platform for filming with the telephoto lens. The 1 "sensors will still have performances higher than you think, but this sensor is much better than you can think. There are the FZ1000 II and Leica V-Lux 5. The quality of the images from Raw is much better than I expected. Short review for the ZS70 here, my complete review shortly published on my blog (Google name of the camera and photographic-center). This camera has a very small sensor, but it is a modern BSI CMOS, which means that it is very efficient for the size of its pixels. I would like more cameras to be designed in this way. Answer/explanation Quick: I'm giving him 5 stars for two reasons: one, I can't choose 4.5, and two, there were a couple of reviews to a star here when either the camera has not yet been released or there was a mistake Obvious user. It is the ideal format for one Camera of all sizes, welcome if you ask me. I suggest readers who do not use the rough to learn how to use the TZ70 so that they can derive their best. The design is very elegant, minimalist and beautiful. Therefore, the sensor -combined output and goal performs a camera of this class.
